<legend>

Congratulations! You passed!

 $\label{eq:Grade received 100\%} \textbf{ To pass } 80\% \text{ or higher}$

Go to next item

You are building a calendar web application; which of the following input types can be used? Select all that apply.	1/1 point
<pre><="month"></pre>
○ Correct That's correct. This is a valid input value for type.
<pre> <input type="week"/></pre>
input type="year">
<pre> <input type="date"/></pre>
○ Correct That's correct. This is a valid input value for type.
You want to define a dropdown of selectable options. However, you also want users to be able to input their responses as well. Which of the following is the most suitable form element to wrap available options? Select datalist fieldset	1/1 point Correct That's correct! Using datalist, you provide suggestions that users may or may not select. With the input filed, they are free to add their response.
For the following code block, what is the most suitable input type that will ensure that only a single option is selected? 1	1/1 point radio checkbox submit button correct That's correct! Radio is used to select a single option.
When defining a form, which element is almost always defined? output> singut>	1/1 point or convect That's correct. This is a valid input value for type. or convect That's correct. This is a valid input value for type. or convect That's correct. This is a valid input value for type. or convect That's correct. This is a valid input value for type. or convect That's correct. This is a valid input value for type. or convect That's correct. This is a valid input value for type. or convect That's correct. This is a valid input value for type. or convect That's correct. This is a valid input value for type. or convect That's correct. Using datalist, you provide suggestions that users may or may not select. With the input filed, they are free to add their response. For the following code black, what is the most suitable input type that will ensure that only a single option is selected?

	O <option></option>
5.	True or false. The following form element will clear the form validation errors.	1/1 point
	<input type="reset"/>
	○ True
	False
	Correct That's correct! The reset value will reset the form contents to default values.
_	A LONG TO THE COURT OF THE COUR
6.	A developer has added the following input element to a HTML form. What client-side validation is applied? Select all that apply.	1/1 point
6.	A developer has added the following input element to a HTML form. What client-side validation is applied? Select all that apply. <input minlength="4" required="" type="email"/>	1/1 point
6.		1/1 point
6.	<pre><input minlength="4" required="" type="email"/></pre>	1/1 point
6.	<pre><input minlength="4" required="" type="email"/> The user input must be in an email address format Output Correct</pre>	1/1 point
6.	<pre><input minlength="4" required="" type="email"/> The user input must be in an email address format Correct That's correct. The type attribute is set to email which will validate that the input is a valid email address format.</pre>	1/1 point
6.	<input minlength="4" required="" type="email"/> ✓ The user input must be in an email address format ✓ correct That's correct. The type attribute is set to email which will validate that the input is a valid email address format. ✓ The user must provide a value to the input field ✓ correct	1/1 point
6.	<input minlength="4" required="" type="email"/> ✓ Correct That's correct. The type attribute is set to email which will validate that the input is a valid email address format. ✓ The user must provide a value to the input field ✓ Correct That's correct. The required attribute will ensure that the user provides a value to the input field.	1/1 point
6.	✓ Input type="email" required minlength="4"> ✓ Correct That's correct. The type attribute is set to email which will validate that the input is a valid email address format. ✓ The user must provide a value to the input field ✓ Correct That's correct. The required attribute will ensure that the user provides a value to the input field. ☐ The maximum length of the user input must be 1024 characters ✓ The minimum length of the user input must be 4 chararacters.	1/1 point
6.	<input minlength="4" required="" type="email"/> ✓ Correct That's correct. The type attribute is set to email which will validate that the input is a valid email address format. ✓ The user must provide a value to the input field ✓ Correct That's correct. The required attribute will ensure that the user provides a value to the input field. ☐ The maximum length of the user input must be 1024 characters	1/1 point